COPENHAGEN, Aug. 8.—Busily occupied as they are in Belgium and along the French border with their attempts to cross into France, the German army today advanced upon another of the foes of the Fatherland. They placed an army of 40,000 men in Finland, at Eknaes. This is supposed to be the advance guard of an invasion in force. The Germans were supported by a number of warships. Eknaes is about 250 miles from St. Petersburg by water. Immediately upon landing the Germans met a small force of Russian soldiers, which disputed their advance for a little time, but was quickly driven back. The Germans are pressing toward Helsinki, the capital of Finland.

Reports indicate that the Germans are attempting to stir up a revolution among the Finns against their Russian rulers. If they are successful in this, it is said that a move on St. Petersburg is planned.

From Helsinki to St. Petersburg there is a direct line of railway. It is expected the advance on the czar's capital will be along this line.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 8.—German and Russian cavalry are in almost constant skirmishing along the Prussian frontier. The German advance is being supported by mounted artillery, and the Germans are destroying all buildings along the line of the frontier.

A Russian raiding party burned the towns of Narsim and Illovo in a sudden raid, but was forced to fall back before a superior German force.

PARIS, Aug. 8.—The French army of invasion is now attacking the fortifications which guard the German stronghold at Mulhousen, 61 miles south of Strassburg. Following a victory over the Germans at Altkirch earlier in the day, the French column which started from Belfort advanced against Mulhousen. The latter town is heavily fortified and the French advance is being opposed by a large German army.

Details of the strength of the French attacking column are withheld, but it is known that a large force had been gathered at Belfort preparatory for a supreme effort to occupy Alsace-Lorraine. The French government expects that the populace of the captured provinces, wrested from France by Germany after the last war, will come to the aid of the French soldiers so soon as they take the country.

Mulhousen, against which the present movement is addressed, is the center of the cotton industry in southern Germany, a manufacturing town of note. Should the French be able to penetrate its defenses, they will have secured a foothold that will enable them to break through the first line of the German fortifications and be in a position to put Germany on the defensive.

The German frontier guard was taken by surprise and retreated after a few volleys had been exchanged, leaving several dead on the field. Meanwhile, French aviators had

M. W. Edwards, who claims Minneapolis as his home, was arrested at the Hotel La Crosse this afternoon charged with blackmail.

The dictagraph played a prominent part in securing the arrest of Edwards, one recording every bit of conversation which took place in the hotel here.

Edwards is alleged to be a member of a gang of blackmailers who have "worked" throughout the country. Doctors were their particular prey, it is alleged.

Edwards' arrest was the result of work by the Thiel Detective agency of St. Paul and the local police.

The police this afternoon declined to discuss the case.

When she found they had not escaped, worrying caused an attack of temporary insanity.

GERMANS IN U. S. PROTEST ALLEGED UNFAIR STORIES

Organize to Collect Big Relief Fund from All Over the Country

HOLD NEWSPAPERS ARE BIASED

Believe Meager and Colored News is Calculated to Hurt the Germans

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Representatives of more than 1,000 German societies throughout Greater New York voted today to organize a relief association which will accept contributions to a fund to aid families of the victims of war in the Fatherland. It was also decided that "if the present hostile attitude of the American press continues," the society will publish a newspaper in English "to disseminate fair information" of the war.

The Greater New York organization will immediately take steps to affiliate with every German-American organization in the United States and under the auspices of the United German-American alliance, concentrate in the gathering of an immense fund. The following plea for loyalty to the Fatherland, and protest against the attitude of the press was issued today:

The Protest
We take this occasion to protest with every energy against the attitude of a certain portion of our English speaking American press, which owing rather to insufficient or improper information or in some cases to solicitude for the cause of England, Russia, and France, or hatred of the Teutonic races and people, or of the person and character of Emperor William, both in their news and editorial columns, spread impressions among our English speaking fellow citizens which lead to hatred of Germany, and Germans in this country to which we cannot remain indifferent.

We feel that an impartial and just treatment of all sides in this world conflict by the mighty agencies that mould our public opinion is necessary in the interest of peaceable abidance in our midst of all the nations making up the republic, side by side, and that all elements who believe in peace abroad and in our neutrality should endeavor to be fair and not vie with the press of London and Paris with attacks upon the German name.

Should the news be true, doubtless we soon shall hear of a German proclamation promising independence to Finland if the Finns come to the support of the German cause. An uprising in Finland would be of enormous military value to Germany, but if the Germans lost the war, the liberties Finland already possesses would be lost as well.

False reports of the capture of Liege, carried by other news services, are due to correspondents mistaking street fighting in the city for the presence of the entire German army. A few isolated detachments of Germans occasionally are able to pass between the forts that circle Liege, four to six miles beyond the city. A rush into Liege by the remnants of a regiment devastated by the forts, entails hand to hand fighting that must send forth the cry: "The Germans are in."

By the time the alarm reached America it has been elaborated in some cases into the capture of the city.

The massed attack of the Germans on the Liege forts is described truly as "an act of heroism," in the official German account of the Liege operations. But, the German general staff is inaccurate in characterization of the attack as "unique."

During the South African war, the British troops used the same methods in what were called "frontal attacks." The Boers, without modern weapons and with only kopjes for their fortresses, drove the British back, time and again. The Belgians, in nickel steel forts, directing six-inch and 9.7 inch guns against the Germans, are but modernizing the tactics of the late South African burghers. The enormous importance of the capture of Liege to Germany's plan of campaign is indicated by the desperate duplication of Great Britain's fatal assaults against the Boer kopjes.

ULTIMATUM IS SENT TO PORTUGAL TODAY BY THE GERMANS

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 8.—The German foreign office, through its representative here, has peremptorily demanded that Portugal define her attitude toward Germany in the present war. This action is considered here to be preliminary to a declaration of war, as the Portuguese parliament has already passed resolutions pledging support to England, under the old treaty. It is expected that, so soon as the German government is officially informed of this action, it will declare war against Portugal.

"Whys" of European War Moves Explained By Military Expert

BY J. W. T. MASON

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—11 a. m.—The sensational possibility that Germany has begun an attempt to entice Finland into a revolt against Russia, is contained in the report from Copenhagen that 40,000 German troops have landed at Eknaes, in southern Finland.

If the report is true, it marks as desperate a resolve on the part of the kaiser as was the daring gallop of the Uhlans into Liege to try to capture the Belgian commander. Forty thousand soldiers in Finland means a transport journey or Russian naval activity will cut the sea line of communication and isolate the invaders.

The risk would be too great, and the force itself too small, if the German general staff contemplated attacking St. Petersburg through Finland. But if the kaiser has reason to believe the Finns will help him against their Russian oppressors, his movement of an army corps into Finland becomes explicable.

Should the news be true, doubtless we soon shall hear of a German proclamation promising independence to Finland if the Finns come to the support of the German cause. An uprising in Finland would be of enormous military value to Germany, but if the Germans lost the war, the liberties Finland already possesses would be lost as well.

False reports of the capture of Liege, carried by other news services, are due to correspondents mistaking street fighting in the city for the presence of the entire German army. BRUSSELS, Aug. 8.—His demand for a twenty-four hour armistice to "collect the wounded and bury the dead," refused, General Von Emmich, the German commander, ordered his entire army against Liege today. The seventh, ninth and tenth corps are engaged and the battle line embraces the entire chain of the Liege fortifications.

The slaughter is terrible as the Belgian fire is deadly. The Germans are advancing over open spaces that have been accurately mapped and the range determined by the Belgians. German field artillery, mortars, and siege guns are in action pouring thousands of exploding shells into the Belgian fortresses.

Gen. Leman declared that the request for an armistice was intended only to permit the Germans to hurry up two additional army corps that were pressing forward from Cologne. Seven regiments of German cavalry who had managed to cross the Meuse were surprised by Belgians and cut to pieces. Those not killed or wounded were forced to surrender.

Claim Only 8,000 Dead
Gen. Leman reported to the war office today that up to the present the entire Belgian losses have totaled only 8,000 men killed and wounded as against 30,000 to the Germans.

The Germans are reported as continuing their advance en masse despite the heavy losses already sustained. It is believed here that they

Naval Reserve Cruisers Protect Transports Carrying Troops to Belgium

PARIS, Aug. 8.—A fleet of British transports, convoyed by two battleships and three armored cruisers landed British regulars at Ostend, Calais and Dunkirk today. The first British expeditionary force numbered 22,000 men and comprised some of the crack regiments of the British army. The troops were immediately landed under the direction of the French officers who had been sent by the war office for that purpose. They will be hurried to Namur, where they are to aid the Belgians in making their second stand when Liege proves untenable.

Only Advance Guard
The British expedition was planned by the English and French war offices at a conference held in London on Wednesday but the news that the soldiers were coming was rigidly suppressed. It is admitted at the war office here that these troops are only the advance guard and that England had already commandeered enough ships to rush an army of 100,000 men across the channel. It is stated that in addition to the escorting war fleet which accompanied the transports, British naval reserve cruisers are strung almost directly across the channel thus ensuring safe passage for the British transport.

The announcement that these British forces are actually on French soil has aroused the greatest enthusiasm. That French, Belgian and English soldiers are to fight shoulder to shoulder against the invading Germans means much to the French. Ostend, where one of the parties landed, is the nearest Belgian port to the English coast, being 80 miles from Dover. Dunkirk is just across the French boundary in Belgium and is sixty miles from Dover. Calais, further from Dunkirk in France, is about 20 miles from Dover. The fact that these three ports are being used shows that it is planned to take every advantage possible for the British forces. To have landed them at one point would have retarded speedy landing, so the expedition was split up and it is expected that similar action will be taken in the other expeditions now believed en route.

AN ULTERIOR MOTIVE

By ELLA RANDALL PEARCE

(Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

"Life seems very hard sometimes—and empty," sighed Alma, at which reflection her companion laughed, not heartlessly but softly and with amusement. It was as if a baby had sat up round-eyed and railed against its stern existence.

The laugh brought a pout to the girl's lips. She frowned over the fragile teacup she held.

"You never take me seriously," she complained.

Casper James glanced around the luxurious room. Little groups of fashionable folk chatted lightly; the scent of hot house flowers pervaded the air; brilliantly shaded candles twinkled against rich tapestries. Then he looked again at Miss Alma Withers, arch, rosy and fluffily haired, a Watteau princess in a modish chameuse gown and audacious hat.

"You expect me to take you seriously—here—where the weightiest question is 'one lump or two'?"

"But I am serious," declared Alma. "I am bored with the monotony and selfishness of life as I find it. I want to be doing something active—useful. Can't you understand?"

"A passing mood," murmured her companion. "All fashionable women succumb at times."

Alma's large blue eyes lighted aggressively. "I'd show you, Mr. James, if I only knew what to do. The ordinary large charities do not appeal to me, but if I could help somebody—do something to—oh, what's the use of talking to you, you skeptic?"

But Casper James was not laughing now. He was looking thoughtfully at the pouting, pretty face before him, and when he spoke his tones ran low and soothing.

"If you're really in earnest, Miss Withers, I would suggest away in which you might bring cheer and brightness to a fellow creature. I know a dear old lady who dreads above all things to be alone. Her companion is going to desert her for the purpose of getting married—and she has appealed to me to find a successor."

Alma looked dubious. "But it will be easy for her to find another companion."

"Not so easy considering the circumstances. Her home is small and remote in a sleepy little town on Buzzard's Bay. She has comforts, but no luxuries. All the fine things of life appeal to her, but she is a semi-invalid, a member of the shut-in society. She is attached to her little, old-fashioned home, but think what it would mean to have the companionship of youth, to have her life brightened by your gay gifts of nature."

Alma flushed with unwonted embarrassment. "Why, I don't know," she protested. "She might find me very immature and frivolous, and—"

"Then you don't want to be active and useful and help somebody, after all," spoke James in a disappointed tone.

"Who is your dear old lady?" asked Alma desperately. "I—I am in earnest."

"Mrs. Anstey. Shall I write to her?"

"Yes, yes," agreed the girl. Her color had mounted high and her eyes sparkled. Casper James should see that she could be serious if she chose; that she was not a mere idle, pleasure-loving butterfly.

His eyes rested on her excited face with an expression she had never encountered.

"I thank you very much, Miss Withers," he said gravely. "And, to be frank, I think a quiet summer by the sea will do you good."

Alma Withers took up her new avocation three weeks later, with an air of buoyant assurance, but with secret trepidation. It was one thing to shine as a belle in the lively social set to which she belonged, and another to adequately fill the role of companion to a strange, dear old lady in a lonely cottage by the sea.

"But since I've accepted the commission, I want to make a success of it," reflected Alma. "I wonder how the simple life will suit me. Heigh-ho, I believe I do need a rest anyway. Isn't that what he told me to take a quiet summer by the sea would be good?"

Then Alma frowned suspiciously. Could there have been an ulterior motive for this charitable suggestion of Casper James? Was his consideration for her instead of the dear old lady? Well, if this were true, at least he had only her welfare at heart.

Alma had not known Casper James long, nor had their meetings been frequent; but he had never concealed his interest in her from the beginning. It had been a silent watchful interest, elaborated by some of the compliments and pleasantries which the men of her set usually bestowed upon her. In fact, he seemed so unlike those others who helped to keep her bright little world spinning that Alma had more than once wondered why Casper James left his sober business affairs to dip into frivolous functions.

Mrs. Anstey was found to be a delightful gentlewoman whose semi-invalidism had made her neither embittered nor querulous. Her home was picturesque and filled with modern devices for comfort. There was a rambling old garden, and across the road a short path led to an insweeping dip of the bay. A staid Norwegian woman of uncertain age catered ably to their physical needs.

Alma had brought with her a trunkful of her simplest gowns, but even these seemed ostentatious in such simple surroundings. It soon became evident that Mrs. Anstey knew nothing of her companion's social standing at home, and Alma could not enlighten her. But she could and did display all her enterprising graces and talents, and Mrs. Anstey brightened visibly under her animated influence.

"It seems like going back to my own lost youth to watch you and listen to you, Miss Withers," she said one day after Alma had finished a session of song. "I wonder what possessed you to come and minister to the wants of a lonely old woman? Even if you needed the employment, surely you could have found it in livelier places."

"I like it here," answered Alma evasively, as she arranged the couch pillows for Mrs. Anstey's afternoon nap and drew down the green shades.

A few moments later, she was flying down the path to the sandy shore, and, perched on a rock, with her arms wrapped round her knees and her golden hair flaring in the breeze, she repeated the question she had just heard. "What possessed me to come here? Why, philanthropy, of course—what else?"

Then, while musing, she saw a dark figure picking its way across the bench. Alma stared incredulously, her heart strangely beating to accelerated time. Could it be Casper James?

That gentleman came near with outstretched hand and beaming eyes. "I saw you from the road," he announced casually. "Don't get down. If you knew what picture you make with that blue water and sunset sky for a background!"

"But—you—" began Alma.

He leaned against the rock with his hat in hand and his fine, strong face bent toward her.

"It is wonderful to see you here—away from an artificial setting and those rapid, chattering crowds. And how radiantly well you are looking!" Then he laughed boyishly. "Oh, I see the question marks in your eyes, Miss Withers. Well, I am here because I am visiting my own home in the next town, and during my vacation time I always make it a point to call on Mrs. Anstey. She was a dear friend of my mother."

"Home! Vacation!" There was more than the sunset glow on Alma's face. "Mrs. Anstey never told me."

"No, I asked her not to speak of me until I came—to speak for myself. But I shall not intrude, Miss."

The Monitor, Story—The Imp and The Little Boy.

"TEACHER was telling today about every child having a 'dual personality,' daddy," said Evelyn, with a puzzled look. "What did she mean by that?"

"Why, didn't she explain it?" asked daddy, rather surprised.

"No, daddy; she went on talking about something else."

"Well," said daddy, "I think I can explain by a little story what she meant. This little boy was about Jack's age. Everywhere he went he had two little companions, though you could never see them. Every boy and every girl is the same way and every man and every woman. Everybody that lives goes around, wherever they may be, with these two companions whom you cannot see."

"What do you mean, daddy?" asked Jack, very much puzzled.

"Do you have a monitor in your grade? We used to have at school."

"We have one!" cried Evelyn. "The best behaved child in marks of deportment is monitor for a month, and the rest of us are supposed to look to the monitor as an example."

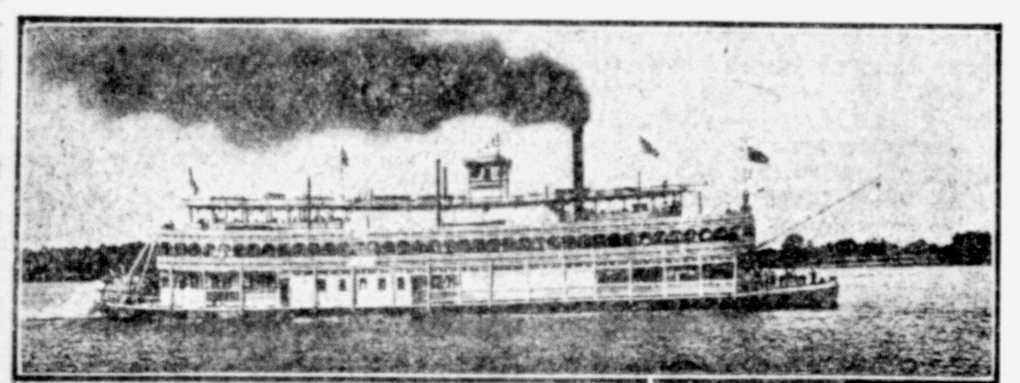

"Well," continued daddy, "that's the way it is. This little boy went around always with these two companions that lived inside of him. I think they used to run around between his heart and his mind. One of these little creatures was a monitor, and the other was an imp, and the imp was always contradicting everything the monitor said for the little boy to do and trying to get him to do just the opposite."

"For instance, when mamma would call the little boy in the morning the monitor would say, 'Now you get right up now!' but the imp would chuckle and cry, 'Don't you get up; don't you get up!' and if the imp made him late for school the imp was tickled to death. Why, the imp would even try to get the little boy to play truant and go fishing instead of to school, and if the boy refused to give in that much—and he never really played 'hokey' but once—the imp would try to get even for the rest of the day by whispering to him not to study his lessons and to be late for supper, and somehow everything would go wrong, and he would go to bed at night an unhappy boy."

"But on some mornings the monitor would tell him to get up when he was first called, and he wouldn't pay any attention to the bad little imp at all, but would spring right out of his bed and come downstairs with a cheerful smile and get to school on time, and he'd enjoy every minute of the day, with all its work and play, and he'd go to bed happy. And, Evelyn, it was just the same way with this boy's sister. It's the same way with everybody that lives."

DON'T NEED FRENCH AID

TOULON, Aug. 8. —The French battleship Jean Bart has been ordered to proceed to the Mediterranean immediately. She has been held here under orders pending a conference with the British admiralty to determine whether her services would be needed to reinforce the British fleet. The fact that she is going to the Mediterranean is believed to show that she is not needed in the North Sea.

In one of his Hibbert lectures Max Muller said to the students: "Many of you, I suspect, carry a halfpenny with a hole in it for luck. I am not ashamed to own that I have done so myself for many years." The case was cited by him in his lecture as an illustration of "survivals" from primeval fetishism, but on his own account Max Muller confessed that when sometimes he had left home without this halfpenny talisman he felt "very uncomfortable" until his safe return.

DISCUSS ORDERS TO U. S. FLEET

Refugee Ships to Take Americans From "Concentration Ports"

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—Sailing orders for Uncle Sam's refugee fleet to rescue Americans marooned in warring European countries were discussed today at a conference of Secretary of State Bryan, Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo, Secretary of War Garrison and Secretary of the Navy Daniels.

It was decided to issue orders to American diplomatic officers abroad to use neutral passenger liners where ever possible at once. Upon receipt of advices of congregation of Americans at "concentration ports," ships would be sent, under control of the secretary of war, from this country. Within a month or six weeks, the relief board expects to have the bulk of Americans out of Europe—all those that desire to leave immediately.

American citizens are not being detained in Germany by an order from the emperor, but because it is impossible to transport them, Secretary of State Bryan was informed today by the German charge d'affaires.

HAVE PATIENCE,
WAIT BRAVELY

From all over the United States come protests from German-American citizens and societies against what they feel to be the unfairness of the newspapers in handling the war news.

We do not believe the papers are intentionally unfair. As we have pointed out before, Germany's side of the war developments cannot be secured, because with the cables cut Germany is isolated. There are no newspaper war correspondents at the front, because the belligerent nations forbid it. War news coming from France, Belgium and England is colored at the source, and no doubt does not deal fairly with Germany.

But what would German-American readers have the papers do—refuse to publish the French, English and Belgium dispatches? In that case they could get no stories about the war at all. Is it not better to publish the unfriendly stories coming from nations fighting Germany, than to publish nothing? With the date line as his guide, cannot the German-American make due allowance for prejudice and unfairness, and with the French and other hostile stories as a basis, draw his own conclusions? Does he not prefer that to silence?

Readers should not mistake the purposes of newspapers. They should know that the news columns are for facts if they can be secured, statements where facts cannot be had. It is the editorial column that shows the paper's opinion.

The Tribune, in its editorial column, has repeatedly pointed out the fact that, coming from Germany's enemies, many of the war stories are unfair to Germany; that Germany's side has not and cannot now be told; that Germany is fighting in the open against fortified foes. We have asked readers to suspend judgment until both sides are given a hearing. Is not that fair?

We wish some of our German-American friends could stand by the telegraph editor's desk for one day and see the number of petty stories painting Germany as a monster and her soldiers as wanton brutes that go into the waste basket. "War is hell," and critics of any army in the field can pick up these heart-breaking incidents, or color accident with the scarlet of vicious intent. They are not material, even were they true. Their sole purpose is to inflame, to appeal to the wanton and passionate. We who know our German-American neighbor know he is not brutal; that he is fun-loving, sympathetic; a worker by preference, a fighter only when his emergency demands. To paint him as wilfully cruel is falsehood.

Again we urge all readers to stay their judgment until both sides of this sad story have been told. And we appeal to our German-American readers to be patient, and to await the word that, sooner or later, will come from the German side. We can not get it until Germany herself is ready, for not only are the cables now out of commission, but Germany herself, in order to shield her plans, is compelling silence. Men and women here whose hearts are bleeding for the German people will be truer patriots if they display the fortitude to wait for news until Germany's welfare permits the kaiser to speak.

"IN TIME OF WAR PREPARE FOR PEACE"

One of the costs of war, perhaps hardest to measure and of greatest importance, comes from the fact that in Europe, in time of war, practically all men are warriors. The nations will begin to pay the price when the reserves get into the fight. "Ten thousand men lost," says a cable. We think of ten thousand fighting atoms. Not so. Ten thousand scholars, scientists, inventors. With one may die a cancer cure, with another a perfected wireless telephone; with one a solution of the housing problem, with another the secret of saving the waste of both competition and monopoly. In the citizen-soldiers the armies of knowledge are wiping themselves out.

Who dares estimate this loss to civilization? A great factory is destroyed—it is nothing; a great idea perishes—the depth of its worth can not be fathomed. Peace made the unprecedented advance in commerce, industry, farming, invention, every phase of economics. War may set it back fifty years. Indeed, great secrets in the brains of citizen-soldiers may perish now, never to be reproduced, while in other cases centuries may elapse before another intelligence works out the line of thought.

This is war. It has to do with races, dynasties, boundaries. Its objects are selfish, petty. It takes no account of the things that lift and exalt us. For it there is neither justification nor compensation. The best that can come of it is realization of the futility of war. There is a timely suggestion in an editorial in The Public entitled, "In time of war prepare for peace."

When a knife blade loses its temper it becomes dull, but when a woman loses hers she becomes cutting.

Getting Along

It ain't no use to fume and fuss, If you're a moderate salaried cuss, No, not a bit. No use to sit And knock the whole blamed universe.

It might be worse, Yes, quite a lot. Supposing that you haven't got What you think you're entitled to. It is a durned poor thing to do To sit and nurse a pale blue funk. Get out old scout, and show your spunk.

Pull up your belt, throw out your chin, And buckle in. There's no one in this country who Has got a doggone thing on you. Just make your mind right up on that.

And then stand pat. Roll up your sleeves and go to work You can't make a cent and shirk. You'll be surprised when, some fine day,

Things start your way. And they do, It's up to you To call the iron boys down In some good business in your town. And when you've got A house and lot And motor car and bank account Of some amount, Sit down and take a little ease And then recall this awkward wheeze.

Rewarded

After dining the restaurant patron proceeded to tip the waiter. "Beg pardon, sir," said the waiter, examining the coin, "but this half dollar is bad."

"Is that so?" exclaimed the other. "O, well, keep it for your honesty."

Most Regrettable

There was a grim, determined look in little Jones' eye, as he walked into the optician's imposing premises. "I want a pair of glasses immediately!" he demanded. "Good strong ones!"

The assistant glanced significantly at the door labeled "sight testing room," and switched on his best professional smile; then switched it off again, constrained by little Jones' manner.

"Good strong ones?" he inquired. "Yes; strong ones!" affirmed Jones. "I was out in the country yesterday and made a painful blunder."

"Ah!" the assistant rubbed his hands together. "Mistook a stranger for a friend, perhaps?" "No!" came the blunt rejoinder, "a bee for a violet."

No Extra Charge

"How will you have your eggs cooked?" asked the waiter. "Make any difference in the cost

The Minister Was Puzzled

At a marriage service performed some time ago in a little country church in Georgia, when the minister said in a solemn tone: "Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded husband?" instead of the woman answering for herself a gruff man's voice answered, "I will."

The minister look up very much perplexed and paused. He repeated the sentence, and again the same gruff voice answered, "I will."

Again the minister looked up surprised, not knowing what to make of it, when one of the gentlemen at the end of the row said: "She is deaf. I am answering for her."—Lippincott's Magazine.

A Matter of a Comma

"Bill," the poet gasped, staggering into his friend's room. "Why, what's wrong?" the friend inquired, startled as he grasped hold of the tottering man.

"Wrong!" the poet muttered. "Ye gods! I wrote a poem about my little boy. I began the first verse with these lines:

"My son! My pigmy counter-part."

"Yes! Yes!"

"Read!" he blazed suddenly.

"See what that criminal compositor did to my opening line."

The friend read aloud.

"My son! My pig, my counter-part!"—In National Monthly.

"I kept my head when I fell into the water," observed the young man.

"How fortunate!" replied the caustic maid. "It must have helped you so nicely to float."

This beautiful cup, known as the American yacht cup, has been held in the United States since 1871, when the schooner Columbia won from the English schooner Livonia, over the New York Yacht club course.

Since then, though many attempts have been made to do so, the cup has never been lifted from American soil. Sir Thomas Lipton has made three unsuccessful attempts with his three Shamrocks, but without result. This time, with his Shamrock IV, he hopes to accomplish the task.

Germans Demand
Strict Censoring
Of U. S. Cables

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—President Wilson today received from the German-American chamber of commerce of New York a vigorous protest against naval censorship of German wireless stations while English and French cables are free and uncensored. Inquiry was made if the use of the cables for "tipping off" war offices abroad was not a violation of neutrality and if the cables should not also be put under naval censorship.

"The cable to Germany has been cut and the wireless stations at Sayville, Long Island and Tuckerton, N. J., are under control of censors," the German protest reads. "On the other hand the French and English cables are in clear operation and not under any censorship whatever. To the best of our belief and information, instructions and news of movements of German ships are carried from here to England and France over these cables and then transmitted by wireless to English, French and Russian men of war."

"At the same time those cables are freely used to disseminate in the United States and from here to other parts of the world, false rumors, reports and exaggerations which influence public opinion against Germany, and tend to humiliate her in the eyes of the world. Germany is defenseless as she is practically incommunicado."

"Are not these facts infringements on the neutrality declared by the United States, and should not these cables also be put under strict censorship?"

Hubert Ellis, president, and Heinrich Charles, secretary of the chamber of commerce, signed the protest. Captain Bristol, official censor of the navy department, stated today that no official protest had been received against the censorship of the German wireless station without similar censorship over British and French cables. He said the committee now supervising the wireless had taken no steps about the cable. He believed when the board meets again to consider questions of neutrality that the censoring of cables to Europe will be considered.

At a recent meeting of the board of censorship of cables, which might give military or naval intelligence to any of the belligerent powers was considered but no decision reached.

Without a formal protest from the Germans or some other government against transmission of cable dispatches in this country, the board feel that a censorship order might offend one or all of the powers.

The extent of such censorship, if invoked, is receiving the serious attention of high state and navy officials.

They realize that official and commercial dispatches sent from this country may elude the German cruiser Dresden, the Cunard liner Lusitania is expected to arrive here Sunday. Wireless messages from the Lusitania state that she is making excellent time. She steered southward out of her regular course after being warned by the British cruiser Essex.

Whether such unrestricted cable operations is an "unneutral" act is the question before the diplomatic and official experts.

The German charge said he had received a protest from the German-American chamber of commerce of New York, against the action of the United States in maintaining strict censorship over German wireless stations while permitting cable messages to go to France and England uncensored. He had not acted on the protest yet.

SCHOOL TEACHERS MAROONED ABROAD

War in Europe Threatens to Cause Postponement of "First Day of School"

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Causing the the greatest consternation among educational authorities, but great joy to young America, the European war threatens to cause a postponement of the opening of schools throughout the country.

Advices received here today indicate that hundreds of American school teachers are marooned in France, England, Germany, and other European countries now in a state of war. Those in Germany have but small chance of getting out, possibly for months. It is practically certain that so long as Germany is engaged in war they will not be able to leave except at the greatest risk.

Colleges also report that scores of professors are among the Americans marooned on the continent.

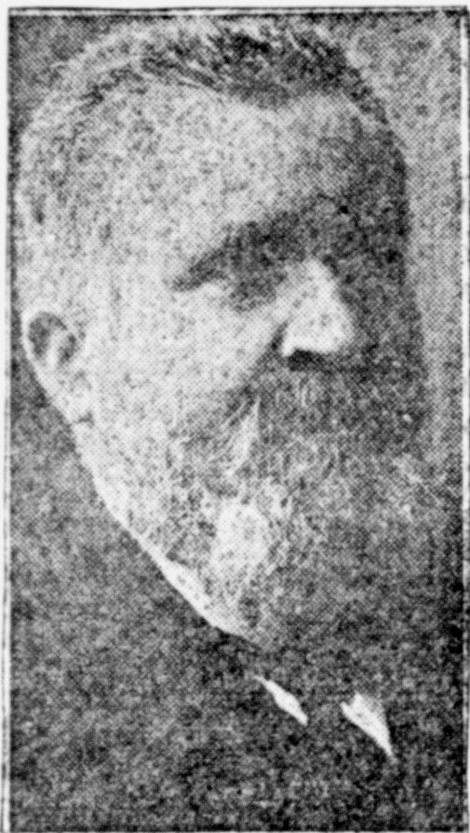

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 8.—Milwaukee school officials today are looking for twenty-three substitute teachers to take the places of those marooned in Europe. The fact that so many of the regular teachers are of German parentage is supposed to account for the number that visits the old country annually.

DES MOINES, Aug. 8.—Estimates made here indicate that at least fifty Iowa school teachers are in the European war zone. From ten to twelve are from Des Moines, six from Sioux City and nearly every Iowa city has one or two. In addition to teachers at least 100 other Iowans are in Europe.

Incidentally, "Our civilization demands a greater or less degree of mendacity," remarked the abstruse person. "We are constantly encountering some empty phrase, some conventional remark, which is absolutely devoid of sincerity."

"That's right," answered the book agent. "That's perfectly true. I am reminded of it every time I walk up to the front step where there is a doormat with the word 'welcome' on it."—Washington Star.

French Socialist Leader Assassinated

Jean Leon Juarez, the most powerful socialist leader in Europe, was assassinated in Paris on the eve of the outbreak of the European war. He was dining in a restaurant when a shot was fired through the window killing him instantly.

Juarez was spectacular in his career and impressive in the power that his eloquence with tongue and pen gave him, not only with the populace and in the Chamber of Deputies of France, but throughout Europe. For twenty-nine of his fifty-three years he was prominently before the public as a legislator, journalist, socialist and philosopher.

DESMOND STARTS EARLY IN MONTH

North Side Man Will Begin Walk to Frisco Early September; Wife to Go With Him

John Desmond, former north side business man and an enthusiastic follower of John Payson Weston, will start on his 3,000 mile hike to San Francisco between the first and tenth of September.

Mr. Desmond will be accompanied on his journey by his wife with a horse and buggy. Several changes of apparel and shoes will be carried in the buggy. Mr. Desmond is particular as to his shoes and is going to leave with a good supply of his favorite make to avoid foot sores. According to the plans already formulated he will reach San Francisco in six months at the latest. With ordinary luck he expects to make the trip sooner. He expects to average twenty miles a day, which would bring him to the end of the hike in 150 days, fully a month ahead of schedule.

When asked whether he anticipated delay in the mountains, Mr. Desmond stated that he expects to have passed the Rockies before snow flies.

The route of the walk has been completed as far as Denver. Mr. Desmond is as yet undecided as to whether to go to Denver or Pueblo, the former point being the best from which to reach Salt Lake City, which he intends to visit.

German Army on the March in the Most Recent Maneuvers.

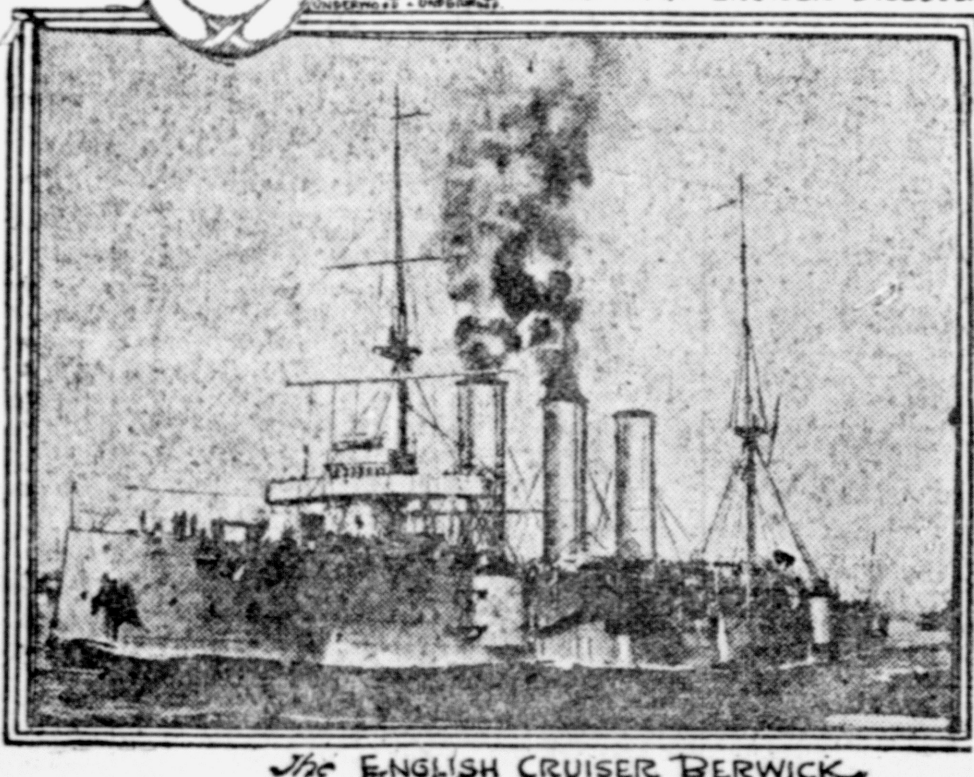

This is a photograph of a part of a regiment of the wonderful German army, said by military experts to be the best organized the world has ever known. These soldiers are now marching into France with the hope of marching on to Paris as their forefathers did in the Franco-Prussian war. There have been various reports of battles on the frontier, but since telegraph and telephone wires have been cut it has been impossible to determine who has had the advantage.

Three Foreign Cruisers Awaiting Prey Off Atlantic Coast

People of the Atlantic seaboard cities have been excited for several days over the presence of seven foreign cruisers waiting to catch liners of their enemies going to or from New York, Boston and Philadelphia.

The Dresden, the Strassburg and the Karlsruhe, German warships; the Berwick, the Essex and the Lancaster, belonging to the British government, and the French cruiser Conde are the vessels sea captains have reported. Yet their presence has not hindered several fast vessels from slipping in and out of New York.

German Sharp-Shooters Picking Off Enemy From Cover

No department of the German army has been given more attention than the sharpshooters trained under the direction of the kaiser. In this illustration they are shown hiding behind bushes and trees at the edge of a wood to pick off the enemy from cover. The whole German military organization has been so trained that there is a feeling over the world that their work will be deadly for the first few months of the war.

REPORTED AUSTRIANS REFUSE ASSISTANCE TO GERMAN CRUISERS

ROME, Aug. 8.—The sensational declaration was made by Italian officials here today that Austria has declined to aid Germany against England. The officials state that the German battle cruiser Goeben and the cruiser Breslau, expelled from Messina harbor yesterday, while steaming toward the Adriatic with their decks cleared for action and their men at their stations, wireless for the Austrian fleet to come to their assistance. The Austrian naval authorities in reply sent a flat refusal declaring that war had not yet been declared between Austria and England.

As a result of the refusal of the Austrians to come to their aid the two German cruisers are in a desperate position. A combined French and English fleet is between them and the Austrian naval base near Trieste.

SERBS DECLARE THEY HAVE DRIVEN ENEMY OUT OF THE COUNTRY

NISH, Aug. 8.—Not a single Austrian soldier is now on Serbian soil, it was officially stated at the war office today. The Austrians have been repulsed at Semendria and all other points. The crown prince, heading the main division of the Serbian army, today assumed the offensive, directing a determined attack upon the Austrian army.

It was officially announced today that a Serbian army has occupied Focha in Bosnia.

Focha is a town in Bosnia on the Drina, thirty miles southwest of Perajevo.

GERMAN POSSESSIONS IN WEST AFRICA ARE SEIZED BY ENGLISH

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The British colonial forces on the Gold Coast, on the west coast of Africa, yesterday seized Port Lomo, the chief town in German Togoland, and now hold it, according to official cables received today. At the same time British expeditions seized all of South Togoland, to a point extending 120 kilometers north from the coast. It is stated that the German colonial forces made no resistance.

The Gold Coast is the name given to the southern part of Ashanti, the British possession in West Africa. A military constabulary force of about 1,000 men is maintained there and it is believed that these forces took the aggressive.

BUSINESS TO HALT DURING FUNERAL OF PRESIDENT'S WIFE

As a mark of sorrow over the death of Mrs. Woodrow Wilson and out of respect for her bereaved husband, the president, D. W. MacVillie, president of the Manufacturers' and Jobbers' club, today requested that all members of that organization halt their business for ten minutes during the funeral of Mrs. Wilson.

"I also respectfully suggest that all other business houses act likewise," said Mr. MacVillie today.

The funeral is to be held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. The Manufacturers' and Jobbers' club plans to still their business from 1 o'clock that afternoon until ten minutes after.

Giantess Aquitania to be Armed and Placed on the Firing Line

LONDON, Aug. 8.—After being retired from the service of the Cunard line and now in the hands of the British government the giant liner Aquitania will soon be on the firing line of the king's navy. Work of converting the Aquitania into an armored cruiser was started today.

Hundreds of Americans had booked passage on the Aquitania, expecting to be able to leave for the United States. They are now stranded and endeavoring to arrange passage on other ships. Five hundred additional Americans arrived here today from France. The American relief committee is relieving Ambassador Page of a great deal of work in caring for the refugees.

CITY MUST BUILD A NEW SHEERBOOM

Capt. W. A. Thompson, United States engineer, yesterday afternoon served notice on Mayor Ori J. Sorensen that the city must at once take steps to repair or replace the wagon bridge sheerboom.

The engineer contends that it does not insure the safety to navigation demanded by the war department.

City Engineer George P. Bradish is at present at work on plans for a new boom, one that will extend considerably farther north than the old one.

Steamboat captains have complained of the poor condition of the boom and the lack of landing facilities here.

Capt. Thompson said the city would be given a reasonable length of time to comply with the order. The plans will be completed and work started soon.

LA CROSSE GOLFERS TO STATE TOURNEY

At least five La Crosse men have made plans to attend the amateur golf state championship tournament in Milwaukee starting Monday. They are J. M. Hixon, F. P. Hixon, F. H. Hankerson, George Van Auken and Alfred James.

It is possible that more will decide to go at the last minute. Most of the players will leave early tomorrow.

LONDON, AUG. 8.—The Italian embassy here denied today it had made any statement that Italy had declared war on Germany as asserted by a news agency late yesterday. "Italy's position in this war is one of the strictest neutrality," said the ambassador. "We are at peace with all nations and desire so to continue."

COUNTRY POURS OUT SYMPATHY FOR PRESIDENT

Messages of Condolence Over Death of Mrs. Wilson Still Reach the White House

MORE THAN 3,000 HAVE COME

President Reads Each One and Will Answer all With Brief Notes

BURIAL TO BE AT ROME, GEORGIA

Simple Services Will be Held at Two O'clock Monday at the White House

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—American hearts continued to pour forth their sympathy for President Wilson. The flood of telegrams, mounting now past the 3,000 mark, was unabated. New tokens of a nation's sorrow—a veritable avalanche of letters—augmented these expressions.

The king of Sweden joined the throng of sympathizers today. But the majority of the messages and letters came only from homes where, though the writers had not known Mrs. Wilson, they had somewhat felt the invisible charm of her nature.

Funeral plans early today contemplated only simple services at two o'clock Monday afternoon at the White house, after which the heartbroken executive will take his dead "back home" to Rome, Ga., there to sleep beside her parents in Myrtle Hill cemetery.

Prof. Stockton Axson, Mrs. Wilson's brother was making a race to reach Washington. He cannot reach here before ten o'clock, Monday.

Mrs. Wilson's body still lay early today in the west bed chamber, which looks out over the Potomac.

Only the most extremely urgent business commanded the president's attention during the day. The president has personally read two-thirds of the messages of sympathy. The others he will probably see before night. Every one of these will be answered with a brief note, as soon as possible.

BELGIANS REPEAT CLAIMS THEY HAVE REPULSED ATTACK

desire to overwhelm the defending Belgian forces by sheer weight of numbers. It is understood the main advance is being led by portions of the seventh army corps which is commanded by Gen. Von Einem Dittmaler and by the flower of Gen. Von Emmich's tenth corps, with the ninth corps that has already borne the brunt of the fighting and suffered very heavy losses, held in reserve.

More Germans Coming

That the Germans intend to capture Liege is indicated by the reports that further reinforcements are being brought up. In addition other German armies are moving to reinforce the army that invaded Luxembourg.

The French forces are moving through Belgium as rapidly as possible and it is reported at the war office that the advance guard of 200,000 Frenchmen have already effected a junction with the Belgian army at a point not made public. It is known that French and German skirmishers have been in contact at Marbais and this is believed here to be the prelude to serious fighting there.

The reports received here indicate that in today's fighting the Germans are continuing their display of wonderful bravery. In the face of a withering fire from the front guns they have been steadily pushing their lines forward, and, although repulsed in general charges, have been able to bring their artillery much closer to the Belgian forts.

The war office in an official statement reviewing the situation to date declares that despite the fact that 125,000 Germans have been engaged they have been unable to make any impression on the Liege defenses.

VIENNA, Aug. 8.—It is announced that Austrian cavalry divisions have been sent to co-operate with the German army that is moving against the French. Details of the troops under orders or of their destination are refused by the authorities.

War Bulletins

LISBON, Aug. 8.—Parliament today adopted a resolution announcing it to be Portugal's intention to stand by England in the present war. Whether that support is to take the form of open war on Germany or whether it was to throw Portuguese ports open to British warships is still to be determined.

LONDON, Aug. 8.—The admiralty today again denied that any naval battle has taken place off the Dutch coast. The denial followed the publication of a special edition of the Daily Mail which stated that a battle between the combined fleets has taken place off Musden, Holland. The mail story said that nineteen German warships had been sunk by the British and that the remainder of the kaiser's fleet had scattered and was being pursued. The correspondent added that four Dutch torpedo boats were lying off shore waiting for the arrival of vessels with the wounded.

JARIS, Aug. 8.—The newspaper Petit Parisien prints a dispatch saying that the German cruiser Augsburg of the German, Baltic fleet, which bombarded the Russian port of Libau, was sunk by a torpedo launched by a Russian torpedo boat. The report is without any official confirmation.

been sent up and they located the main body of the German troops guarding the fortifications near Altkirch. The French cavalry scouts were sent out in advance of the main column. While masked by them, field artillery and infantry were brought up. The outposts clashed and the French cavalry retired as though they feared a trap. The Germans rushed in pursuit but suddenly the French cavalry swerved and rode off at right angles across the country while the French batteries, which had been placed in position, opened fire. Within a very short time a second battle was in progress.

French reinforcements were rushed forward and the signal given for the infantry to assault the German main position.

Germans Fight Hard

According to the information reaching the war office the fighting was sanguine from the start. The Germans fought with fury, and their artillery when the French came into range of the position at Altkirch was employed with accuracy. The French would not be withstood and they charged right into the enemy's works. At the same time a flanking party which had been sent out assailed the Germans and the latter, fearing that they were about to surrender gave way and soon were in full retreat toward Mulhouse.

Resident Alsacians, wild with joy when they learned of the French victory, flocked toward the frontier. It is stated that they destroyed several of the frontier stations which had been abandoned by the Germans. The war office positively refused to indicate the number of troops engaged, but says that the Germans were present "in strength."

WOULD KEEP CHILD FROM NIGHT SHOWS

The Associated Charities is endeavoring to keep children of tender ages from moving picture theatres after dark.

Miss Kate Lee, assistant to Miss Winifred Salisbury, and in charge of the work of the La Crosse board of moving picture censorship, declares she has a plan to bring this aim about. One local manager has promised to adopt the Saturday afternoon plan of showing reels for children.

Miss Lee said this morning in connection with the work of the "censorship" that little was being done. She said that in her estimation, the censorship already given most of the films shown here was sufficient.

MRS. NOWAK DIES

Three daughters survive her. She was a member of the Holy Cross Catholic church where funeral services will be held Monday morning at 9 o'clock. Rev. Ft. L. Fufel, pastor, will have charge. Interment will take place at the Catholic cemetery.

NOTED AMERICAN ARRESTED AS SPY

PARIS, Aug. 8.—Ambassador Herrick was informed today that Archer M. Huntington, president of the American Geographical society, and Mrs. Huntington, have been arrested by Germans at Bavaria, and are held as spies. Huntington's chauffeur, who escaped to Switzerland, telegraphed the news to the ambassador and asked him to interfere in behalf of his employer. The telegram said Mr. Huntington had been stripped and searched and that his private papers had been taken from him. Mrs. Huntington also had been searched.

Huntington is a son of the late Collis P. Huntington, and is a New York millionaire. It is believed here that as geographical society representative he may have had in his possession valuable maps that led to the belief that he was a spy.

SOCIALISTS ARE AFTER SCALP OF R. C. M'CALEB

Candidate for Lieut.-Governor Will Probably be Asked to Resign From La Crosse Local

COMMITTEE NOW INVESTIGATING

Their Report Will Determine Whether or Not he Will be Permitted to Remain Here

SAY HE TRIED TO "RUN PARTY"

Members Objected to "Dictatorial" Attitude of Man Who Has Toured East in Interest of Cause

R. C. McCaleb, for many years one of the leading social-democrats here, at present a candidate for Lieut.-Governor on that ticket, will probably be asked, at the next meeting of the La Crosse socialists, to withdraw from the La Crosse local.

Mr. McCaleb's trouble with his party, it is said, is due to what members term his "dictatorial attitude." They maintain that he has attempted to dictate the policies of the party in La Crosse and to dominate all of the meetings, regardless of the views of other members.

It is understood that the matter is now in the hands of a committee representing the La Crosse local and that the committee's report will determine whether or not he is permitted to remain in the organization.

The action of the La Crosse local, it is understood, does not mean his banishment from the Social-Democratic party. In fact he may remain a member-at-large and make the run for Lieut.-Governor if he so desires.

Mr. McCaleb in other parts of the state and in the east is looked upon, say his friends, as an efficient campaigner. Two years ago he toured the east speaking in the larger centers and spent many days in New York city making converts. Definite and final action on the case is scheduled to be taken at the next meeting of the socialists Wednesday evening, August 19.

Different Eyeglasses For Different Faces

Whether you "look well in eyeglasses" or not depends upon the shape of the lens.

Your face isn't the shape or size of Cousin John's or Aunt Sue's. Then, why should all of you expect to wear the same shape and size lens and still have your glasses look well?

Our first consideration is of course accuracy and comfort. But we do not forget appearance.

We have our own prescription shop machines with which we shape from the rough crystal a lens that is best suited in shape and size to your features.

We have no competition in our method of making and fitting glasses.

This is just a part of our SERVICE.

TOM HILL GETS THREE YEAR TERM

La Crescent Man Who Pleads Guilty to Burglary Sentenced

Three years in state's prison at hard labor was the sentence imposed upon Tom Hill by Judge E. C. Higbee in circuit court this morning.

Hill pleaded guilty to the offense of burglary in the night time. He admitted taking belt from the store room of the J. I. Case Threshing Machine company. He was arrested Tuesday morning by the police after a hard chase.

Under the statutes the court could have given a heavier penalty than three years. Leniency was shown because Hill entered the guilty plea.

Hill was formerly from La Crescent. He was well connected there. Hill is also accused of thefts in Minnesota prior to his offense here. No other cases came before Judge Higbee this morning.

MORRIS WANTS TO KNOW PLATFORMS

Lieut.-Governor Only Senatorial Candidate Who Has Told What He'll do With Office

SENTIMENT IN EAST GROWING
Progressives in That Section of State are for Him
—to Tour Fox River Valley Next Week

WAUPUN, Wis., Aug. 8.—A challenge was issued here today by Lieutenant Governor Thomas Morris to the other candidates for United States senator on the republican ticket. He asked why he was the only candidate who had issued a platform telling the voters his position on national issues. His intimation was that the other candidates have good reason to believe a plain statement of their intentions would not meet with popular approval.

"After many years of struggle, the people have secured election of United States senators by the people instead of by the legislature," said Mr. Morris. "Under the old regime, a candidate's election too frequently depended upon what he told the bosses instead of upon what he told the people. Under the popular election plan, the candidate must tell the people where he stands on public questions, if the people are to know for what principles they are voting. Nevertheless, in this campaign I am so far the only candidate running on the republican ticket who has told the people of the state what he would do with the office if he got it. The others have pointed to their records and some have promised to, in the near future, take the people into their confidence and tell them where they stand on the big national issues, but so far they have been silent. Why?"

The lieutenant governor is concluding a week's automobile tour through Dane, Columbia, Green Lake and Fond du Lac counties. He reports that he has found progressive republican leaders with him wherever he has gone, and a widespread sentiment for him among the voters. He has addressed a number of large and enthusiastic meetings every day. He finishes the week's trip at Fond du Lac tonight, where he will speak in the Armory. Next week Mr. Morris will continue his tour through counties in the Fox River Valley and to the west.

LICENSES OUT FOR SEASON OF 1914

One Hundred and Eighty Thousand Expected to Trail Wild Game This Year

SAY THAT GAME IS PLENTIFUL

Wild Fowl Planted by State Has Increased, Claims Chief Game Warden Sholts

MADISON, Wis., Aug. 8.—Resident hunting licenses for all kinds of game have been sent to all county clerks by the state fish and game department, the issue being 180,000. Last year 161,888 were sold in the state. They cost $1 each and 99 cents goes to the state. This brought $145,699.20 into the state's general fund last year. There were also issued last year 679 non-resident licenses for small game, yielding $6,790; 387 large game licenses at $25 each, netting $9,675, and sixteen exchanges of small for large game licenses, bringing in $240 more.

The open season for chicken, ducks, and all waterfowl begins Sept. 7, and closes Sept. 30. The partridge open season is from Sept. 7 to Nov. 30. The federal laws governing waterfowl are now the same as the state laws on the subject.

Milwaukee county is given the largest consignment of licenses this year—10,000; Florence county the smallest, 600. State Game Warden Sholts speaking of the prospects for the hunting season this fall said:

"There has been an excellent hatch of prairie chicken, grouse and partridges. In some counties deer appear to be fully as plentiful as last year. Everything points to a season of sport for those who care to hunt and fish in this state. Game birds planted by this department have increased wonderfully."

POEMS

You Ought To Know

L'ENVOI

When earth's last picture is painted
And the tubes are twisted and dried,
And the oldest colors are faded,
And the youngest critic has died;
We shall rest—and, faith, we shall need it,
Lie down for an eon or two
Till the Master of All Good Workmen
Shall set us to work anew.

And those who are good shall be happy;
And they shall sit in a golden chair;
They shall splash at a ten-league canvas
With brushes of comet's hair
They shall find real saints to draw from—
Magdalen, Peter and Paul.
They shall work for an age at a sitting
And never get tired at all.

And only the Master shall praise us,
And only the Master shall blame;
And no one shall work for money,
And no one shall work for fame;
But each for the joy of working
And each for his separate star
Shall draw the Thing as he sees it
For the God of Things as They Are.

SINGING KNIGHTS SCORE A TRIUMPH

St. Louis K. C. Choral Club
Delights Big Audience on Their First Appearance

In its debut before La Crosse music lovers the Knights of Columbus Choral club of St. Louis last night scored a distinct triumph. An audience which comfortably filled the opera house listened and applauded the singers who presented a striking appearance in their white suits. Under the leadership of William Theodore Diebels the chorus of over sixty voices performed perfectly. The attack, shading and blending of the voices was such as seldom heard in La Crosse before.

Assisting soloists were Messrs. Walter Essman, James McNulty and Victor Shevlin, tenors, and Andrew Kalletta, baritone, and Wm. Nuelle, basso. Mr. Nuelle has a bass voice of phenomenal depth and he scored a hit with de Koven's "Armorer's Song," "La Forza del Destino," duet by Messrs. McNulty and Kalletta was a gem.

Seventy-two men appeared at the La Crosse theater, although this number is but a portion of the entire club. Arriving here yesterday morning, the choral club was dined and driven about the city in the afternoon in automobiles. They were tendered a farewell reception at the Elks' club last night, after which they left the city.

Before returning to St. Louis the club will visit Madison, Racine and other Wisconsin cities, as well as a few outside of the state.

For Flower Holders.

No veranda is complete that is not decorated with flowers. Flowering vines growing about the posts of the veranda are attractive. Climbing roses and other vines can be trained over lattices that can be ordered to fit any space. Jardinieres of heavy pottery in browns or blues or greens can be kept filled with field flowers—daisies, buttercups, wild asters, or golden rod, each in its appointed time. Other bowls and jars and vases, of plain glass or of heavy pottery, can be filled with garden flowers for the veranda. Hanging baskets of Japanese, mahogany-stained split reeds or willow are very good on the veranda. They can be hung from the eaves or from brass or wooden spikes driven into the house wall for the purpose of holding them.

Brief Decision.

When we consider how easily some men make monkeys of themselves, it is not so difficult to believe in the theory of evolution.

THIS WOMAN'S SICKNESS

Quickly Yielded To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Baltimore, Md. — "I am more than glad to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. I suffered dreadful pains and was very irregular. I became alarmed and sent for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I took it regularly until I was without a cramp or pain and felt like another person, and it has now been six months since I took any medicine at all. I hope my little note will assist you in helping other women. I now feel perfectly well and in the best of health." — Mrs. AUGUST W. KONNOR, 1632 Hollins Street, Baltimore, Md.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

During a political campaign a candidate for the legislature was driving through the country seeking votes among the farmers when he met a young man in farmer's garb walking by the roadside. Having in his mind a prospective vote he stopped his horse, and saluting the farmer in a familiar manner inquired: "Are you paying any attention to politics nowadays?" The young man stopped, looked at him suspiciously and drawled out: "No, stranger; that don't happen to be my gal's name, but if it was I wouldn't think it was any of your darned business." This ended the interview as well as the prospect.

CHURCH NEWS

Gather Data on Summer Attendance

A study has just been made in prominent churches in Boston, New York and Philadelphia of summer attendance at services, of pay of famous pulpits, and of average and total sums put upon collection plates. The data was obtainable only on condition that names be not mentioned. Worshippers at all churches reporting are non-residents, three in four at least. Visitors to Boston from everywhere on their way to Maine; visitors to Philadelphia from the south going to or returning from Atlantic City; visitors to New York from the middle west and Pacific coast, and in numbers as noted in other cities, from England and Europe.

Attendance this July was ten to fifteen per cent larger than last July. The summer of 1913 saw fewest people in prominent churches of eastern cities of any season in years. It is found that attendance depends almost wholly on the fame and drawing power of the preacher. There is no parochial loyalty or duty. People go where they believe they will get most. Why attendance should be better this season than last those who manage the churches say they do not know, unless it is cooler weather. The grade of preachers is about the same.

More and more English and Scotch preachers come to America to fill summer pulpits, and more and more American preachers go to England to do the same. Foreign preachers in American pulpits get liberal pay per Sunday. American preachers in English pulpits very small pay or none at all. New York pulpits pay most. The highest is $100 a sermon, or if two sermons on the same Sunday, $150, sometimes $200. These sums are paid to most English preachers. American preachers in the same city get $50 a sermon, rarely more. In Boston and Philadelphia the high figure is $50, and it runs down to $25.

Many Want to be Army Chaplains

Dr. H. K. Carroll, associate secretary of the Federal Council of Churches, with headquarters in Washington, reports the receipt of a large number of applications for appointment as chaplains in the United States navy. With a spirit of unity perhaps never before shown in such matter, Protestant and Catholic cooperated in presenting the Christian argument to the government in favor of an increase in the number of chaplains, and in the proposed division between religious bodies of the men selected. There are now 24 chaplains and 28 new men are to be named.

Churches Approve the Peace Centenary Plans

A peace centenary committee, representing all evangelical churches in the United States, has now secured action by the general official bodies of Presbyterians, Methodists, South, and the Reformed churches, and will apply to the general convention of Disciples of Christ in October, approving the centenary plans. Action has also been secured by the Epworth league, the Christian Endeavor, the Luther league and most of the brotherhoods. The committee is acting through the Federal Council of Churches.

It has been decided that Peace Sunday shall be February 14, 1915, the one falling nearest to the exact date when the present one hundred years of uninterrupted peace between the United States and Great Britain ends.

For all young people's meetings, and also for all Sunday schools the committee is preparing a patriotic service, the aim being to have all hold such service, and have the exercises substantially uniform. Appeal is to be made later to ministers of all bodies whether called as evangelical or not, to preach sermons on the Sunday named on the subject of peace, and to do so even if Europe and half the rest of the world be actually at war at the time. The committee reports finding marked interest in the plans, and even greater interest since reports came of mobilization of European armies.

Bible Society to Celebrate Centennial

Preparations for the celebration of the centennial of the American Bible society start in earnest with the departure of one of the society's secretaries, the Rev. Dr. William I. Haven, at the middle of August on a tour of the world. During this tour Dr. Haven will confer about forms of the celebration, since it is to be, like the society's bible work, as wide as the world. The date of the celebration falls in the winter and spring of 1916.

Nearly all religious bodies will take at least some notice of the celebration, it is expected, and the Protestant bodies of American and all mission fields will join in formal observance and invite into their conventions of that year representatives of the society to rejoice with them over one hundred years of wonderful Bible translation and distribution. Richmond, Atlanta, Birmingham, New Orleans, Dallas, St. Louis, Chicago, Denver, San Francisco, Portland, Seattle, Minneapolis, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Washington, Baltimore, New York and Boston of American cities are to have largest celebrations, it is anticipated.

A Floral Chameleon.

A marvelous flower has been discovered in the isthmus of Tehuantepec. Its chief peculiarity is the habit of changing its color during the day. In the morning it is white; when the sun is at its zenith it is red, and at night it is blue. The red, white and blue flower grows on a tree about the size of a guava tree, and only at noon does it give out any perfume.

EAGLES TO MEET TOMAH PLAYERS

The La Crosse Eagles tomorrow will clash with the fast Tomah team, said to be one of the strongest teams in central Wisconsin. Henry, the pitcher who tried out two years ago with Winona of the Northern league, will take the slab for the Indians with Smith as his battery mate. Saubert, the boy who let Rushford down two weeks ago with no hits and no runs, will probably throw for the Eagles. Ritter is a second choice. Johnson will take his old place behind the bat.

NELSONS BATTLE HOUSTON SUNDAY

The Nelsons tomorrow journey to Houston, Minn., where they will meet the fast team of that place. Jim Squiers will be on the mound for the Nelsons, with Childers receiving. As the Eagles beat Houston here last Sunday, the Nelsons are anxious to turn the same trick there. A win by the north sliders will have much to do with the final rating of the local teams.

GAMES TOMORROW

Eagles vs. Tomah at League park; Nelsons vs. Houston at Houston. Cloisters vs. Prairie du Chien at Prairie du Chien.
Trainmen vs. North La Crosse at Copeland park.

BRITISH NET MEN BEATEN YESTERDAY

Fall to Antipodeans in Three Straight Sets, 6-1,
6-0 and 6-4; Brookes
and Wilding Stars

BOSTON, Aug. 8.—Australia eliminated the British Isles from the Davis cup tennis competition this year in a quickly played straight sets doubles match at the Longwood Cricket club on Friday. Brookes and Wilding, from the Antipodes, by a stonewall defense at the net followed up their two victories in the singles Thursday by defeating Parke and Mavrogordato of Great Britain, 6-1, 6-0, 6-4, and made the score in the struggle between the two countries 3 to 0 in favor of Australia.

There will be two singles matches on Saturday, Brookes meeting A. H. Lowe and Parke playing Wilding, but they will be in the nature of exhibition affairs. The Australasian team will go to New York on Saturday night to begin practice on the courts at Forest Hills, where the challenge matches with the Americans will be held next week.

Neither of the Britons could penetrate the sterling net game of the Australasians Friday. Parke particularly was weak in his returns while Mavrogordato, who was a target throughout the match, upheld the British side for a time by his catlike incourt covering.

Brookes' errors were more numerous than Wilding's, since he tried for apparently impossible balls. It was only in the third set, with the 4 to 0 against them, that the Britons rallied.

WATCHING THE SCOREBOARD BY HAL SHERIDAN

Bam! There goes another record! Heine Zimmerman, terror of umpires, played through four whole games at the Polo grounds without getting chased.

The McGraw clan routed the Cubs in the last clash of the series—routed them so badly that hopes of a pennant are vanishing from their minds.

Now the "croochial" test will come when the Boston Braves hook up with the Giants.

Sure Detroit won. Ty Cobb was back in the game. The butcher boy batter drove in one tally with a triple and scored another himself. Chief Bender twirled shutout ball against the Naps just to show he is in shape for the big clash this fall.

AN OLD RECIPE TO DARKEN HAIR

Sage Tea and Sulphur
Turns Gray, Faded Hair
Dark and Glossy

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops falling hair. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Everybody uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

William of Germany's Real Name.
The real name of Emperor William of Germany is William Hohenzollern. The house of Hohenzollern goes back to the eleventh century. The first counts of Hohenzollern of whom we have any reliable historical knowledge being Burchard and Wezel, who appear to have fallen in a party feud during the reign of Henry IV, about the year 1061.—New York American.

BOXER STARTS SCHOOL HERE

Clifford "Peanuts" Schieberl

Clifford "Peanuts" Schieberl of Milwaukee, one of the cleverest featherweights in the game, is to start a boxing school in La Crosse for the training of ambitious La Crosse boxers.

Schieberl but recently returned from Montana with his manager, E. W. Peters, after winning two battles there.

A gymnasium has already been secured by Schieberl, and work will begin immediately, a number of lads having signed for the three week's course. Arrangements may be made at the Safford billiard parlors on South Third street to enter the course.

The Cabaret.
"What is a cabaret?" asked the new arrival.
"It is the thing," said the city man, "that put the din in dinner and took the rest out of restaurant."—Popular Magazine.
